Status Configuration Pages

<https://campus.barracuda.com/doc/43222818/>

You can view configuration options available from the ArchiveOne Status node in the following ways:

- Click the Configure menu option or click Configure the engine in the toolbar. This allows you to go directly to any page you want to change. Details that can be changed through this method are ones you can safely change without risk of corrupting the archived data.
- Click the Configuration Wizard menu option. This leads you through each page, and is done automatically the first time you run ArchiveOne, along with the Repository Configuration Wizard. Take caution when changing any of the details you can access through this method if you have already archived data as reconfiguration can corrupt the archive.
