

Enterprise Licensing (Pool)

<https://campus.barracuda.com/doc/78151846/>

Enterprise licensing (also referred to as pool licensing) allows you to manage your licensing of multiple firewalls independently.

Licensing Concepts

If the single instance (single box) licensing is considered as a vertical licensing concept in which all licenses are issued for one specific machine, pool licensing can be understood as a horizontal licensing concept in which one license is used for multiple machines. Barracuda offers two types of enterprise licensing:

1. Model-specific pool license
2. Corporate-site pool license (user-based and for add-on security subscriptions only)

Model-specific pool licenses are handy when operating many firewalls of one specific model (e.g., the F280).

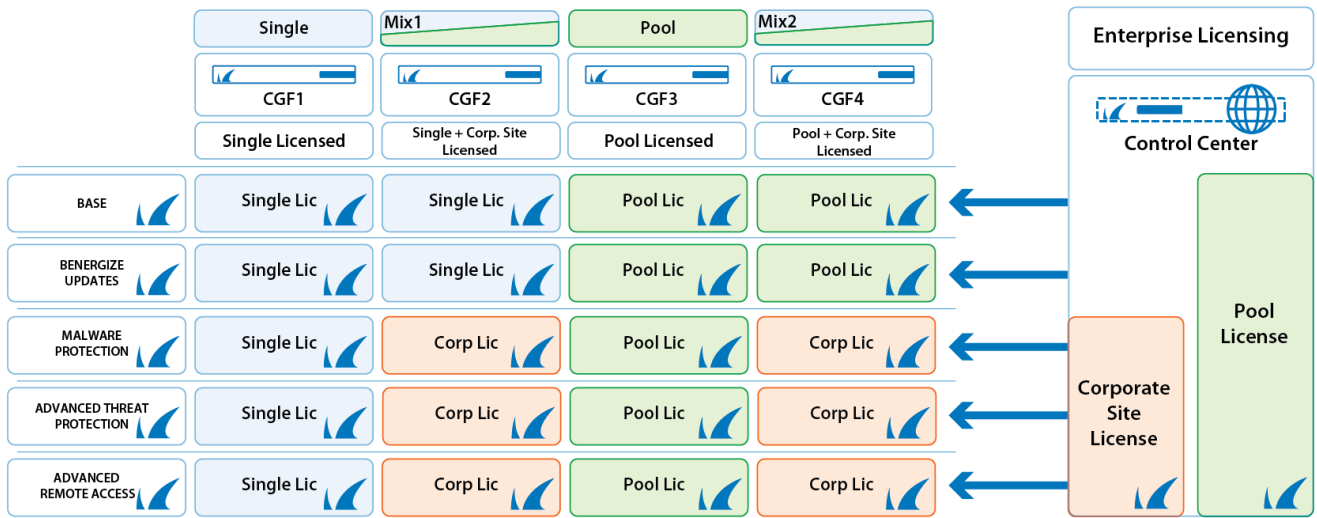

Corporate-site pool licenses can be used only for add-on security subscriptions, like Malware Protection, Advanced Threat Protection, and Advanced Remote Access. The machine itself will need an individual Base subscription and an Energize Updates subscription as a single or pool license. Corporate-site pool licensing requires an additional license agreement.

An overview of all available enterprise license subscriptions is given here:

Enterprise License Subscription	Model-Specific Pool	Corporate-Site Pool
Base License	Yes	-
Energize Updates (incl. Barracuda Web Filter)	Yes	-
Malware Protection	Yes	Yes
Advanced Threat Protection	Yes	Yes
Advanced Remote Access	Yes	Yes

Possible Combinations of License Types

Customers may combine single and enterprise licensing, as shown here:

On a Control Center, you can use all types of licensing for your managed boxes. Therefore on a box it is possible to combine Single Licensing with Corporate Site Licensing and Pool Licensing with Corporate Site Licensing, but NOT Single Licensing with Pool Licensing.

Possible combinations are:

1. Single + Corporate-Site License - Base subscription and Energize Updates subscription are single licensed and further subscriptions can be either single or corporate-site licensed.
2. Pool + Corporate-Site License - Base subscription and Energize Updates subscription are pool licensed and further subscriptions can be either pool or corporate-site licensed.
