WHO'S THIS GUY?

He's definitely up to something, but you needn't worry. He's just one of the many characters you'll find in our new animated training courses available now. We're constantly adding content, so be sure to check it out!

TRAINING GETS ANIMATED

NEW MODULES ENGAGE, INFORM AND TAKE EMPLOYEE TRAINING TO A NEW LEVEL

PhishLine is pleased to announce that the Content Center Marketplace is now home to a growing number of animated training modules. Each module is professionally voiced and timed to accommodate the busy schedules of today's viewers. All videos are subtitled, and several come in many of the world's most requested languages. With a growing number of modules, templates, landing pages and more in our Content Center Marketplace, suffice it to say, this is just the tip of the training iceberg—so be sure to check the marketplace often!

4 NEW MODULES AVAILABLE NOW

- What is Phishing
- Types of Phishing
- Spotting Phishing Scams
- Understanding URLs

Seasonal email templates, fake news phishes, landing pages and more

While it's always phishing season, this time of year is especially good for certain types of scams. To help you leverage the season—and give you more tools to work with—we've created the following new content:

- Indy Race Weekend Getaway
- July 4th Travel Sweepstakes
- Ransomware Countdown

We're also adding an email category that lures readers to click, called 'Phished From the Headlines.' All are available in the Content Center Marketplace.

Polished or not?

NOW YOU HAVE A CHOICE

Some people are compelled to respond to a phish because it looks like a slick marketing effort. Others respond more to a text-only version.

Due to these preferences, PhishLine is creating more of its email templates in both formats, giving you the ability to choose, test and learn what approach best suits your company's needs and goals.

Look for the 'designed' or 'text' designations when you're searching the catalog.
