CAN YOU THINK LIKE A CYBERCRIMINAL?

To beat a cybercriminal you have to think like one. So we're giving you and your employees the chance with two Click Thinking Games;

- It's Here, It's There, It's Ransomware!
- Who's In?

These engaging training games let you choose your target and find a path you feel has the best chance of succeeding.

Will your efforts lead to total success or complete and utter failure? The only way to find out is to play! Ask your consultant for a demo today.

Click Thinking games have multiple endings, so there's always a reason to play again!

Internet of Things Module Caps Latest Round of New Training

If you haven't been to the Content Center Marketplace™ recently, here are some highlights of what's recently been added:

Internet of Things—NEW!

Alerts viewers to the risks of using internet-connected devices.

Public Wifi

A look at the risks of using public wifi and ways to protect yourself.

Bring Your Own Device

Examines risks to using one device for both personal and business purposes.

NEW MODULES ARE ADDED REGULARLY—CHECK WITH YOUR CONSULTANT

'CURRENT THREATS' MIMIC EVERYDAY PHISHING EMAILS

Cyberattackers don't play by the rules when they phish. In fact, they regularly mimic emails that look legitimate when targeting victims.

Phishline's growing catalog of 'Current Threat' phishing emails uses the same philosophy.

Based on real-world examples, these convincing emails will test the limits of an employee's ability to assess what's click-worthy and what's not.

Look for Current Threats in the Content Center Marketplace™. Your consultant would be happy to show them to you.

How to Crush Your Next Training Campaign

You have a limited amount of time to conduct your next training program. Where do you start? A quick call to your consultant is a great first step!

Your consultant can help you define your campaign goals, set a course for achieving them and help you evaluate its success based on back-end reporting.

Your consultant can also guide you through PhishLine's growing catalog of email templates, landing pages and training modules available to help you customize a campaign to suit your needs.
