

Click Thinking Newsletter

When the job of ensuring your company's cybersecurity safety rests on your shoulders, you need all the help you can get. We're pleased to provide these updates to help make your job a little easier.

2020: The Year of the Phish

Nothing trains employees how to avoid phishing attacks better than simulated phishing emails, landing pages and training modules. If you haven't checked the content center lately, take a look at the growing collection that has everything you need to start phishing and protecting your company.

More Modules

PhishLine training modules make security awareness education fun, fast and user friendly. With more than 30 modules to choose from and more on the way, we've got you covered!

More Support

We hope our commitment to providing new and engaging content helps you meet the goals you set out to achieve in 2020. If you need additional help, we're as close as your support team or consultant.

Feel free to reach out any time when you have questions, have an issue to work through or simply need some input on anything we offer. We're here to help!

Tax Season Phishes

As tax season heats up we're increasing the number of phishing email templates that mimic popular commercial filing platforms and tax resources. Check the Content Center Marketplace regularly for new material.

Game On!

Cybercrime doesn't pay but employees can learn from it by playing our Click Thinking games, 'Who's In?' and 'It's Here, It's There, It's Ransomware'. These choose-your-own-adventure styled games let players assume the role of a cybercriminal and create their own pathways to success—or failure.

With dozens of different scenarios for each game, there's always a reason to play again. If you're looking for innovative ways to keep employees engaged, these games are just what you're looking for. Ask support for details.
