Product News and Updates

NEW THIS MONTH

New Interactive Module Listing a Game Changer

Click Thinking is thrilled to announce a completely overhauled Module Listing that's been updated to include interactive links to training. Now you can view videos, games, express modules and more without navigating through the tool until you're ready—making it easier than ever to sample the scope of our vast content catalog!

Look for the new interactive module listing in this month's Click Thinking bundle!

AI Focus Continues

Click Thinking continues to prioritize AI training content. This month, we're featuring a new video focused on AI and information security, along with several new AI-themed phishing simulation emails designed to test the resiliency of your organization's front-line employees. Search for these emails by name in the Content Center:

- AI Certification External
- AI Certification Internal
- AI Social Snoop
- AI Advantage
- Approved AI Platforms

For a detailed look into these deliverables check out the June What's New update in the Click Thinking content bundle.

Take Information Security With You This Summer

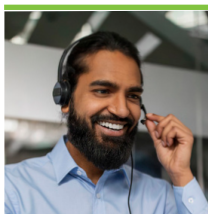

It's human nature for employees to put information security on the back burner when vacationing. But while they're letting their guard down, cyber thieves and social engineers are gearing up. Resorts, airports, cruise ships and even theme parks can be hotbeds for scam artists, shoulder surfers and public wifi stalkers.

Don't let them get the best of your employees or your organization! Our Travel and Out of Office and Social Engineering training modules address key security topics for people on the move. From road-trippers to world travelers, we've got you covered.

Your Ideas Can Make a Difference

If you've ever encountered a suspicious phishing email and felt it would work great in a simulation, we'd like to hear about it! Just contact Barracuda Support with a description of the email, or, better yet, a screen shot, and we'll consider it. Your insights can help us enhance our real simulated phishing email catalog and better protect everyone. Together, we can strengthen our defenses against cyber threats!
