AI and Information Security A103A-33

Examines the connection between AI best practices and a healthy information security environment.

AI and Information Security Infographic

An infographic with a blue and green color scheme. The title "AI and Information Security" is at the top, followed by the subtitle "AI best practices that protect both you and your organization." The infographic is divided into two main sections. The left section, titled "Treat AI as a Guide, Not a Master", contains three bullet points: "Always verify the sources of information you receive from AI tools. Misinformation can lead to poor decision-making and potential security risks. Cross-check facts with trusted sources to ensure accuracy.", "Be mindful of the data you share. Avoid disclosing sensitive or organizational information when interacting with AI systems. This includes passwords, financial details, and proprietary data.", and "Ensure that your software, including AI applications, is up to date. IT departments often release patches and updates that fix vulnerabilities, making your systems more secure against potential threats." The right section, titled "Tap Your Inner Student", contains three bullet points: "Understanding how AI works, and its limitations can help you recognize suspicious behavior or outputs.", "Embrace a culture of security awareness within your organization, where everyone feels responsible for protecting sensitive information.", and "Only use AI tools that prioritize security and privacy. Look for platforms that offer robust data protection measures and comply with industry standards." A large text block on the right side of the infographic reads: "By following these guidelines, you can be a smart, conscientious AI user, effectively protecting yourself and your organization from information security threats." The Barracuda logo is at the bottom right, and the copyright notice "©2025 Barracuda Networks Inc. All rights reserved." is at the bottom left.
