Cybersecurity Awareness Month Issue

Working Toward a More Secure World

As Cybersecurity Awareness Month hits its stride, we'd like to remind you that our commitment to helping you secure your organization is stronger than ever this and every month! To this end, we're introducing new content and spotlighting additional ways to ward off scams, bad actors and cyber attacks.

New Module: AI Acceptable Use Policy

Artificial intelligence is only as smart as the practitioners and policies governing it. In our newest training module, AI Acceptable Use Policy, we cover best practices you can adopt to ensure your employees are using AI ethically, effectively and securely. Check it out today!

AI Acceptable Use Policy

Now available in the Content Center with or without quiz. Search by name or number: A103A-36

UPDATE

A banner with a green header and a background of a person's hand on a computer mouse. The text reads "Fall benchmarking is underway!" in white. There are several blue envelope icons scattered around the text.

Fall benchmarking is underway!

Benchmarking is underway and runs through October 17. If you signed up for this free campaign, you'll receive a customized report once the campaign concludes, typically by the end of the month. Benchmarking is an excellent opportunity to assess your organization's security awareness stance. We phish your employees and report back to you when finished. Click rate, peer organization and industry comparisons are just some of the analytics you'll receive.

If you missed out this time don't worry—we'll do this again in Spring. What's more, the Content Center is home to a growing collection of benchmarking campaigns you can deploy on your own within minutes! Just use the search term "benchmark" to get started.

A YEAR-ROUND COMMITMENT TO CYBERSECURITY

Scammers, bad actors and other threats to your organization seldom take a day off. Staying vigilant year round is the surest way to minimize incidents and avoid being victimized. We're here to help you 24/7/365 with the content and insights you need to stay secure!
